

Radiation Therapy – Abdomen

Radiation Treatment

- Treatment is painless - it is similar to getting an x-ray but with higher energy to treat cancer.
- Each treatment takes about 15 minutes - it is important to lie still and breathe normally.

Possible Side Effects

Always discuss new side effects with your radiation oncology team.

Heartburn & indigestion

- You may be advised to take antacids or prescribed medication.
- Avoid alcohol and spicy foods.

Nausea & vomiting

- You may be prescribed anti-nausea medication.
- Drink plenty of fluids, especially water.
- When nauseated, try foods such as dry white toast, crackers, bananas, broth, and mashed potatoes.

Fatigue

- You may notice a decrease in energy level - rest when needed.
- Eat a well-balanced diet and drink plenty of clear fluids.

Lack of appetite & weight loss

- Ask for a referral to a cancer clinic dietitian.
- It is important to maintain your weight while on treatment.
- Try eating small, frequent meals with higher calories and protein.

Skin reaction

- When bathing, use a mild unscented soap and pat or air dry the treatment area.
- Avoid creams unless advised by your healthcare team.
- Avoid scratching the treatment area.
- Avoid extreme temperatures such as heating pads and ice packs.

Radiation Appointments

Radiation treatments are scheduled Monday-Friday, except on holidays.

You will be scheduled for a Radiation Review Appointment weekly when you begin your treatments. At this appointment you may see a nurse, nurse practitioner, physician or radiation oncologist.
